Judge Requests Secret Service's Barka Case File

New York Daily News Service

PARIS, Oct. 8 — Judge Jean Perez, presiding over the Ben Barka kidnaping trial, announced today that he had asked the Ministry of Defense to order the French secret service to hand over its complete file on the case. "The official defense secrets act is lifted," Perez said.

Six men are accused as accomplices of Moroccan Minister of the Interior Mohammed Oufkir in the kidnaping of Moroccan opposition leader Mehdi Ben Barka.

An impression is growing from the confused and complicated case that the French secret service is guilty to the extent that it knew of the kidnaping plan but did nothing to save Ben Barka, who was in France at the time.
